Bratislava - the little big city.

With fewer than half a million people, Bratislava ranks to Europe's most relaxed capitals, because everything is in close vicinity, reachable within few minutes walking distance. Even other 2 capital cities are very close - Vienna (80km) and Budapest (200km) - reachable also by a boat on the river Danube. Besides, the city itself has its old-town charm, sophisticated restaurants, traditional pubs, good music ranging from jazz to opera, stylish people, and a human scale which means that as a visitor you will not spend half your day trekking in and out of underground stations or getting from the airport into town. All this plus Central Europe's greatest river as a backdrop. What more could you want?

THE CITY

The Capital of the Slovak Republic BRATISLAVA, also referred to as the Beauty on the Danube, can not only boast interesting history but it also is the center of the most dynamically developing region of central Europe at present.

BRATISLAVA is situated in the south-west of Slovakia and stretches on both banks of the Danube and in the foothills of the Little Carpathian Mts. Thanks to this favourable position it was always a commercial center. Today the historic places witnesses to the rapid development of the young Slovak Republic.

In spite of its exciting history, Bratislava is one of the youngest capitals of the world and its population is also very young. The modern metropolis is opened to Europe and to the world as proved by the increasing number of foreign visitors of most diverse countries. They are attracted by the cosines of the rather small city that nevertheless possesses a throbbing social life and historic charms combined with the most recent trends. Palaces, modern shopping and trade centers, admirable arts of the Slovak cooks and brewers, friendly people and various international cultural or sport events, exhibitions, and business opportunities are the reasons why it is worth of visit.

DO & SEE

Bratislava is not just the political, but is also the cultural and sporting capital of Slovakia. Owing to its historically multi-ethnic character, the city's cultural scene is a product of various influences: German, Slovak, Hungarian, and Jewish, among others. Bratislava boasts numerous theatres, museums, galleries, concert halls, cinemas, film clubs, and foreign cultural institutions.

It also has the country's biggest football and ice hockey teams, a purpose-built white-water rafting centre on the Danube, and numerous walking and cycling trails in or near the city. High-quality spa and relaxation facilities, increasingly popular throughout Slovakia, are easily accessible. Bratislava has numerous coffee shops and restaurants, offering international as well as Slovak cuisine, as well as lively bars and clubs.

Bratislava Castle

A national historical monument has a strategic location which was settled in the Celtic and Great Moravian periods. The architecture of the castle was mostly influenced by reconstruction works during the Gothic and Renaissance periods and during the reign of Maria Theresa. In 1811 it burned down. It was reconstructed in the 1960s.

St. Martin's Cathedral

St. Martin's Cathedral is a national historic monument; a Gothic church with several chapels, consecrated in 1452. Between 1563 and 1830, 11 Hungarian kings and 8 queens were crowned here. The cathedral tower rises to a height of 85 metres and is topped off by a gold-plated replica of the royal Hungarian crown.

Primate's Palace

Primate's Palace is a gem of Neo-Classical architecture.

The original residence of Esztergom Archbishop. It includes a Mirror Hall and a famous collection of 17th century English tapestries depicting the tragic love of Hero and Leander. The palace made history during an important event in 1805; after the battle of Austerlitz, France and Austria signed the "Peace of Pressburg" treaty in the palace.

Old Town Hall (Stará radnica)

The Old Town Hall is a complex of various buildings originating from different architectural periods. It housed the self-government of the town headed by the mayor. The Town Hall's core was established in the first half of the 15th century from the house of Mayor Jacob. Since 1868 it has been the seat of the City Museum, housing an exhibition of town history and feudal justice.

Blue Church

Originates from the beginning of the 20th century. It is characterised by the blue colour of its façade with a textbook example of secession style in the sacral architecture. Interesting about the church is that a model of it is located in the Mini-Europe park in Brussels.

Local specialities include for example Halusky, small dumplings topped with cheese and bacon. Hungarian influences have added much needed spice to traditional Slovak cuisine. As far as international cuisine goes, there is plenty to choose from, as Bratislava builds a reputation as an eastern European capital of gastronomy.

1. Slovak Pub

The 1. Slovak Pub has, in its short history, become one of the favorite spots for college students. The first, and probably the only pub in the world, where you can get a free soup for an A on an exam. The concept of the Slovak Pub is to present Slovak history and things authentically Slovak at one place. Its individual rooms present eras ranging from the old pagan times up until the revival era of the 19th century.

Bratislava Flag Ship Restaurant

In the inlet section, which is accessible from SNP square is Bratislava, is situated Golden Lane presenting the facade of the original houses that already do not exist. Thus, except the only one - the herd's house on the Jewish street called "At the Good Shepherd". You can find the shop with product from our Organic farm in this little house in our place - in addition to 100% sheep's cheese and smoked sheep's cheese it will offer also our bread and fresh loaves. From the houses, which we try to maintain for your memory, you can find in Bratislava's Golden Lane for example an indication of the building of Town Hall Zuckerman, home of sculptor M. X. Messerschmidt from Vydrice / sample of his work Character Heads / and an old bakery where we bake the original furnace Bratislava's rolls .

Despite being a relatively small city, Bratislava is rich with cafés, from grand coffee houses to trendy student hang-outs. Most of the best cafés sit in the centre of town, especially around the Main Square. During the summer, many have outdoor tables, perfect for relaxing after exploring the Old Town.

Café Roland

Café Roland is a magnificent fin-de-siècle establishment and a Bratislava institution. Overlooking the Main Square, Café Roland is a bit expensive, but worth it - the espresso is divine. There is a staggering range of cakes on offer if you fancy indulging on a grand scale. During the summer the café spills outdoors and the atmosphere is positively buzzing.

Kaffé Mayer

A grand café of the Vienna school, Kaffé Mayer is one of Bratislava's most famous establishments with an impeccable pedigree. It's popular with a more mature crowd and reflects this in the prices. Kaffé Mayer is notorious for its scrumptious deserts. The coffee isn't bad either, but the striped vest waiters might take some time getting used to.

BARS & NIGHTLIFE

Bratislava has a growing number of good places to go and is building a reputation as a nightlife capital. If you are having a night out, just ask the locals. Top Slovak beers that are definitely worth a few rounds include Zlatý Bazant or Kelt.

Over recent years, Bratislava's club scene has completely reinvented itself. In came DJs and funky cocktails, out went the go-go dancers and burly doormen. Listings detailing what's going on can be found throughout town.

The Dubliner

This is a very popular Irish pub that draws in the expats as well as locals. Typical of an Irish pub overseas, there is memorabilia galore, which includes a cobbled street! The Guinness served from The Dubliner's enormous bar is good. Bands play most nights and the atmosphere is fittingly friendly and loud.

Address: Sedlárska 6

Subclub

This club is situated in a former nuclear bunker carved into a cliff beneath Bratislava castle. Ucko, as it is also known, is famous beyond Slovakia for its club nights that draw top international DJs. The atmosphere is loud, the beer is cheap and the clubbers impeccably cool.

Nu Spirit Club

The Nu Spirit is no ordinary DJ bar or a nightclub. The bar was established in 2001 with a clear focus on people, who like dancefloors to be a bit more discerning.

DJs and live bands play soulful music six days a week. Styles vary from jazz to hip hop, house or drum'n'bass, but the common denominator remains the same. Music that is played here has to have soul. The list of DJs who have controlled the turntables in our bar includes people who have shaped the nu jazz / dancefloor jazzscene over the past two decades, such as Shuya Okino from Kyoto Jazz Massive or UK legend Paul Murphy.

You don't have to be an owl to experience the positive vibe of the Nu Spirit. We are open from 10 a.m. to 4 a.m. You can start your day here with a cup of coffee and free wi-fi Internet, and follow with a cocktail or two before the night kicks in.

It is a popular tradition for Bratislava families to do their weekend produce shopping at one of the city's lively market places. They are a welcome off-the-beaten-path sight for visitors who can sample local dishes. Small open-air markets can be found on Polna near the Medical Garden and Sancova, Mlynarovicova on Petrzalka. The liveliest market is the one on Mileticova Street, which sells lots of well-made, cheap clothing. It's busiest on Saturdays. Take tram 9 to Zahradnicka to get there.

There are numerous shopping malls throughout Bratislava, including Aupark on the right side of the Danube next to Sad Janka Kráľa park. Polus City Center is on Vajnorska, 10 minutes away from the city centre, and the newest Eurovea is situated in the city center, right next to the river bank.

Public Transport

Most sights and places of interest to tourists can be found in the city centre, or within walking distance of the pedestrianised old town. If you need to travel further afield within the city, the best way to do so is by public transport.

Bratislava has a comprehensive network of public transport lines running at regular intervals according to defined timetables. Departure times and a list of destinations, with the journey time to each, are posted for each service at every stop it serves.

To use any public transport service in the city, you must validate a pre-purchased ticket upon boarding by inserting your ticket into one of the red devices found on board each vehicle. Tickets are available for:

a 15-minute, single-ride journey (€0.70)

a 60-minute, multi-ride journey (€0.90)

24 hours (€4.50)

48 hours (€8.30)

72 hours (€10.00)

1 week (€15.00)
