THE CITY

Unearth a Dublin with vibe and a surprise around every corner.

Dig deep at Christ Church Cathedral's crypt and meet the notorious mummies, the Cat and Rat, trapped in the organs in 1861. Feel the energy in Temple Bar, the cultural quarter that never sleeps, teeming with lively pubs, chilled-out cafes, and vintage clothes and music shops.

Zip around the arc of Dublin bay, a 20 minute DART ride for a quick fix of fresh air action. Taste the freshest seafood straight off the fishing boat, kayak in Dublin bay, plunge into the sea at the famous forty foot. This is where Dubliners go when they want to wake up their scenes without leaving town.

Dublin by night is party central, with streets you have strolled around by day transformed into a buzzing fun zone! With an explosion of new eateries in recent years your belly is bound to be satisfied. Have the 'craic' at a traditional Irish pub, or hit a chic, stylish bar or nightclub.

And the next day, do it all over again!

Aboveboard

Aboveboard offers quality facilities and amenities to satisfy the passions of both competitive and casual sports lovers. From the bay one can capture the superior panoramic views of Dublin's coastline, while getting up close and personal with its diverse geography and wildlife.

Kiteboarding is an adventure surface water sport, using a kite to harnesses the power of the wind and propel a rider across the water on a small surfboard. We in Ireland, situated on a small island, are surrounded by some of the best kitesurfing conditions in the world. So if your looking for flat water or big waves we have it all! It is an amazing sport with a growing community of young and old riders alike, making it a sport for everyone.

Stand up paddle boarding is now a rapidly growing sport internationally. It is a sport that promotes balance, strength and general fitness using the minimum equipment- board, extendable paddle and floatation jacket.

The club also supplies bicycles for hire which can be an alternative more leisurely way to explore the coast and more inland attractions. The local and surrounding area boasts many historical and cultural attractions.

Address: The West Pier, Dun Laoghaire, County Dublin

Public Transport: The club is situated between the seaside town of Dun Laoghaire and Monkstown village, conveniently located near 7, 8, 46 A bus and DART services, the local passenger ferry and Aircoach making it accessible to anyone visiting the city.

Trinity College

Trinity College is the oldest university in Ireland. Founded in 1592 by Queen Elizabeth I, the College is in an enviable position in the very heart of Ireland's capital. Trinity College on its 40-acre site retains some of its ancient seclusion of cobbled squares, gardens and parks.

The College is famed for the great treasures. These include the Book of Kells, a 9th century illuminated manuscript, the Books of Durrow and Armagh and an early Irish harp. These are displayed in the Treasury and the Long Room which houses over 200,000 of Trinity's oldest books.

The Book of Kells Turning Darkness into Light explains the background of the story famous gospel manuscript and other related manuscripts.

Temporary exhibitions in the Long Room display the rich holdings of the library and encourage research.

Treasures in the Long Room include one of the few remaining copies of the 1916 Proclamation of the Irish Republic which was read outside the General Post Office on 24 April 1916 by Patrick Pearse at the start of the Easter Rising. The harp is the oldest of its kind in Ireland and probably dates from the 15th century. It is made of oak and willow with 29 brass strings. It is the model for the emblem of Ireland.

Kilmainham Gaol

If for no other reason, Kilmainham Gaol would be remarkable for being the biggest unoccupied gaol in these islands. As such, it gives the visitor a dramatic and realistic insight into what it was like to have been confined in one of these forbidding bastions of punishment and correction between 1796 when it opened and 1924 when it closed and offers a panoramic insight into some of the most profound, disturbing and inspirational themes of modern Irish history.

Leaders of the rebellions of 1798, 1803, 1848, 1867 and 1916 were detained here. Such names as Robert Emmet, Charles Stewart Parnell, leaders of the 1916 Rising and DeValera are associated with the Gaol.

Dublin Bay Cruises

Dublin Bay Cruises sail between Dun Laoghaire and Howth up to six times a day from March to October. Your 90 min trip with us brings you not only around the beautiful vista of Dublin Bay, but it also helps you to travel through time and to understand how and why the modern city of Dublin developed to become the capital city of Ireland.

The 90 minute Dublin Bay Cruise which links with Dublin's commuter train at both harbours takes you across the beautiful Dublin Bay including Dun Laoghaire Harbour, James Joyce tower, Dalkey Island, Dublin Docks, Clontarf, Bull Island, Bailly lighthouse, Irelands Eye Island and Howth Harbour where you can take the train back through the city centre to Dun Laoghaire or Visa Versa. On board you can enjoy a commentary on each attraction while you enjoy a beverage of your choice or just sit and gaze and enjoy the beautiful views on the bay on the shadow of the Dublin Mountains.

As both harbours are positioned just to the North (Howth) and South (Dun Laoghaire) of the city centre they are ideally located whether you cycle, walk or take public transport which stops at both harbours and is only a 20 minutes journey from the City centre. If you choose to cycle on the new cycle track around the edge of the bay from Sutton to Sandycove you can take your bike on board to cross the bay.

Malahide Castle

Malahide Castle, set on 250 acres of park land in the pretty seaside town of Malahide, was both a fortress and a private home for nearly 800 years and is an interesting mix of architectural styles.

The Talbot family lived here from 1185 to 1973, when the last Talbot died. The house is furnished with beautiful period furniture together with an extensive collection of Irish portrait paintings, mainly from the National Gallery.

The history of the Talbot family is recorded in the Great Hall, where portraits of generations of the family tell their own story of Ireland's stormy history. Many additions and alterations have been made to this romantic and beautiful structure, but the contours of the surrounding parklands have changed little in 800 years, retaining a sense of the past.

Castle Ghosts:

As befits the oldest inhabited castle in Ireland, Malahide Castle has many ghostly traditions. Many historic castles and houses have one ghost, some have two or three, but Malahide Castle has five.

Dublin Castle

Dublin Castle is the heart of historic Dublin. In fact the city gets its name from the Black Pool - 'Dubh Linn' which was on the site of the present Castle garden. The Castle stands on the ridge on a strategic site at the junction of the River Liffey and its tributary the Poddle, where the original fortification may have been an early Gaelic Ring Fort.

Later a Viking Fortress stood on this site - a portion of which is on view to visitors at the 'Undercroft'.

The south range houses the magnificent State Apartments that were built as the residential quarters of the viceregal court. They are now the venue for Ireland's Presidencies of the European Community, Presidential Inaugurations and State Functions.

The State Apartments, Undercroft and Chapel Royal are open to visitors. On occasions, the State Apartments may be closed for State Purposes.

Giro d'Italia Big Start

One of the world's greatest cycling events is coming to Dublin in 2014. The Giro d'Italia will stage it's 'Grande Partenza', the Big Start in Belfast and Dublin on May 10th-12th. Three race days will take place in Ireland with the exact race formats and routes to be confirmed, however day three's race will conclude with a spectacular finish in Dublin city centre.

The Giro d'Italia's arrival in Dublin will be celebrated with a host of special events in the run up to the arrival of over 200 of the world's top professional cyclists. Such is the prestige of the Giro that Bradley Wiggins, 2012 Tour de France champion, has focused on the Giro d'Italia 2013 rather than defending his Tour de France title. There is a strong Irish connection to the Giro with Stephen Roche winning the famous 'Maglia Rosa', the winners' Pink Jersey, in 1987.

First organised in 1909 the Giro is now one of the world's largest sporting events, with 12.5million live spectators along the route over the 3 weeks of the event. Along with the Tour de France and Vuelta d'España, the Giro makes up cycling's most prestigious three-week long Grand Tours.

Dublin City Soul Festival

□ Dublin City Soul Festival ~ is a celebration of peace, unity & love□ is Ireland's feel-good festival, a unique annual celebration.

Last years Dublin City Soul Festival featured loads of exciting events to choose from and what's more most of them were FREE for you to enjoy because as the old saying goes..."the best things in life are free" !

Favourites included:

The Soul Picnic - a little piece of magic in association with Dublin City Council. Enjoy the world's best music concert in a picnic style starring an exciting line-up of amazing local, national and international artists. Much more than a music event, enjoy tasty treats and BBQ food from our picnic vendors. Entry is free, but don't forget to make a donation.

Love the City Music Trail- Mosey along the Dublin streets, moving from venue to venue checking out all the fantastic entertainment on offer or find your favourite venue, band or DJ and get comfy.

Savour a relaxing beverage in a quaint bar or cafe while enjoying an acoustic set from one of our solo artists or duets, then stroll a little further down the road and submerge yourself in a full on musical experience that will guarantee to have you out on the floor shaking your tail feather! (Warning: comfortable dancing shoes required)

As you make your way along the friendly Dublin streets you'll be amazed by the exciting on-street entertainment from our Soul Festival buskers and street artists!

The pub is a place dear to the heart of every Dubliner but you'll find that cafés, coffee shops and tea shops come in a very close second! There are hundreds of cafés in Dublin offering the finest coffees and teas from around the world along with a wide selection of delicious food and sweet cakes to accompany them. When you're in Dublin, take some time to sit back and relax with a delicious hot cup of your favourite brew, and watch the world go by.

The Cake Cafe

The leafy courtyard is an oasis of calm in a busy area of the city, it stretches from Camden Street to Pleasants Place. It is the perfect place to relax with a savoury tart and a glass of wine selected from The Cake Café's carefully chosen wine list.

At Cake Café they take great pride in preparing their coffees. The beans are ethically sourced and fully traceable. The coffee is imported and roasted from Ariosa and is blended every week and delivered to the Cake cafe the next day so it is always full of flavour. There is a double shot of espresso in almost all of our coffees.

The Cake Café is run in a very environmentally aware manner. It is located within the Daintree building which has been built in a sustainable manner. The toilets are flushed with collected rainwater and the underground heating is powered by solar panels on the roof.

Why not drop by on your way home from work for a glass of Prosecco in the courtyard or for a sneaky cupcake or two?

The Decent Cigar Emporium

All Cuban coffees are grown and cultivated under the forest canopies of the Sierra Maestra Mountains, in fine deep soil, rich in humus and without the use of any chemical products.

As coffee is dependent on its terroir (the environment within which it is grown) for its flavours. The altitude coupled with the soil and surrounding vegetation, gives some Cuban coffees a smokey tobacco flavour, while others located near sugar plantations tend to have a sweeter flavour.

All of our coffees are 100% Arabica bean cultivated and handpicked in the Sierra Maestra Mountains, shade grown in fine deep soil rich in humus and without the use of chemicals. The beans are then sun dried before they are roasted and packaged in Havana. Cuba's climate, soil conditions and careful cultivation make for a faultless production.

The coffee aficionado will enjoy this exiting taste as appose to the uniform ness and blandness of most high street coffees.

Cuba has never been known as a volume producer of coffee, yet in contrast it has a reputation as the finest producer of quality coffee.

Havana Cafe serves a range of Cuban Coffees Cubita, Serrano and Santiago

Stag's Head

Enjoy a breath of fresh air when visiting the stag's Head, just a stone throw from the buzz of Grafton St. Here you will cross into a landmark with enough History it could occupy a library.

Finding The Stag's Head pub is akin to discovering a rare treasure as it is concealed through a narrow passageway off Dame Street, although access can also be gained through Exchequer Street or Georges Street. When you enter inside this feeling of discovered booty is greatly intensified as a virtual paradise of culture and old world values confronts you. This is probably Dublin's best preserved Victorian pub - and everything here is of authentic Victorian origin. Take time to look around and savour the sumptuously carved Victorian mahogany fittings, the mosaic marble tiled floors and granite tabletops.

Dating back to 1770, the pub was rebuilt in 1894-95, and was the first pub in Dublin to be lit by electricity. Magnificent stained glass depicts the Stags Head theme throughout eight windows. This was a pub Joyce drank in from time to time. The interior has proved attractive to film makers: scenes from The Treaty, December Bride, and Educating Rita have all been shot here. The bar retains the old barrels in which Jamesons ten-year-old liqueur whiskey was distributed in the last century.

The Cobblestone

The Cobblestone Pub and Music Venue is based in Smithfield, close to the Four Courts, a few hundred yards from the North bank of the Liffey.

The pub has music seven nights a week, two informal sessions down stairs and a pay-in listening venue on the upper floor. The front room and main bar hosts the most authentic trad. music, with anything up to a dozen musicians in the cramped enclave under the main window. The sessions regularly feature Sean Garvey and Johnny Moynihan and you would be likely to hear Frankie Lane and Paul Kelly the desperadoes who fronted the Fleadh Cowboys and are now AKA the Wedding Band from Hell.

One of the best and most loved pubs for trad sessions in the city.

McDaid's

One of the true literary pubs of Dublin. The building that houses McDaid's can be traced back to the late 18th century and is reputed to have housed the City Morgue and later converted into a chapel for the Moravian Brethren, hence the high ceilings and the Gothic style windows. McDaid's has been identified by Joycean scholars as the setting for the opening of his story, Grace. Brendan Behan was a regular in the pub and he would regularly entertain the crowd with his vast repertoire.

McDaid's was also the one time haunt of Patrick Kavanagh, Flann O'Brien, J.P. Donleavy and Liam O'Flaherty. It is said that Behan based some of his characters in The Hostage and Borstal Boy on publicans he met in McDaid's.

Nowadays McDaid's provides jazz and blues music. So whether you want to soak up the atmosphere of old literary Dublin or just have a soothing pint of plain, check out McDaid's on Harry Street, just off Grafton Street.
