The impressive, enchanting shadow of the Alhambra casts a magical spell upon all who pass through Granada. This is a city of legends created by gypsies and pirates, played out in the warren of the Alayzin, and in the inescapable presence of the ancient Moorish castle, the famous Alhambra. The Sierra Nevada Mountains provide an impressive backdrop and add to the enchanting feel of this miraculous place.

THE CITY

Granada, the Spanish word for the mythical fruit pomegranate, typifies this city that is a blend of ancient and modern cultures, old and modern lifestyles. Granada lies in the centre of Andalucía, the heart of Moorish Spain, and fuses its Islamic past and its Spanish present. This fusing of cultures is evident in the haunting sounds of Flamenco, a genre of music and dance, whose lingering impressions and frantic footsteps echo through the corridors and narrow alleyways of this city.

The hypnotic sounds of Flamenco express the haunting passion and sorrow of being alive, the rawness of life. This music is truly the muse of Andalucía. Granada is a charming city, vibrant with the music of Flamenco, sumptuous tapas, and local people who really know how to enjoy life. It has the dance-till-dawn nightlife of a big city with the comfortable close-knit feel of a small town with many cosy local bars and cafés. It is possible to explore the city by foot, which is the best way to inhale the life in Granada, as the shadow of the Alhambra guards you. The pace of life here is different. Get used to long leisurely lunches, and decadent afternoon naps called siestas. All of Granada sleeps during this time, so it is difficult to avoid becoming part of the life and routine here.

Eating tapas is the famous style of eating in Spain, and refers to a portion of food rather than a type of cuisine. Tapas are small portions of a variety of dishes. The idea is to eat a little bit of many different items, rather than one large portion. Sharing food is a cultural necessity in Spain and adds to the energetic, friendly charm of this city. For every beverage you order at cafés and bars in Granada, you are given free tapas. It may not be necessary to eat a full meal, but here are some fabulous places to try if the free tapas are not enough.

El Aji

This restaurant is claimed to be highly recommended by the locals. El Aji is a cosy tapas restaurant which serves great breakfast, lunch and dinner.

SHOPPING

The streets lead to the Plaza Bib Rambla, a fabulous place to stroll and shop. Clothing stores, bookstores, accessories shops, jewellery and music stores populate this area. Many shops and stalls have clothing and jewellery imported from Morocco. For Spanish and Moroccan inspired souvenirs, head for the Plaza Nueva Area and Calle de Elvira. Calle Alhóndiga is a street lined with Europe's favourite clothing store chains, including the likes of Zara, Benetton and Mango. You can also find Spain's foremost upscale department store here, El Corte Inglés (Acera del Darro, +34 902 224 411).
