Naples, with its million inhabitants, is the third biggest city in Italy. Its position is spectacular with the celebrated view over the gulf of Naples and the extraordinary islands of Capri, Ischia and Procida. The city is overlooked by Vesuvius, a vast volcano which erupted violently in 79 BC covering the cities of Pompei and Ercolano. Today, these cities, now excavated, bear witness to the splendours of the Roman Empire.

THE CITY

The historic city of Naples was founded about 3,000 years ago as Partenope by Greek merchants. Later, the settlement took the name of Paleopolis, the old city, and in 475 BC it became Neapolis, the new city. Under various phases of foreign rule, the city developed and grew and then became the capital of the most important of the pre-unification states, the Kingdom of the Two Sicilies. The rulers of that Kingdom, the Bourbons, constructed a magnificent palace in nearby Caserta and filled the city with historic structures of all kind.

DO & SEE

Photo: Nicola

The historic centre of Naples with its splendid palaces, and popular and lively working-class districts, is now on the list of UNESCO World Heritage Sites. Naples also boasts an underground city, as well as its famous views from all parts of the city. Moreover, this hospitable city is marked by contrasts and popular traditions, such as the annual miracle whereby San Gennaro's 'blood' becomes liquid in front of the eyes of his followers. Two products have made Naples famous throughout the world. One of them is the pizza, which is only one part of a rich local cuisine. The other one is music with the famous popular song "O Sole Mio."

Photo: Homini.)

Neapolitans believe that their cuisine is among the best in the world. If it is you can judge for yourself after trying a REAL pizza, different kinds of pasta made with tomato sauce, meat sauce, fish or the typical cakes called babà and sfogliatella. While here, you should not worry too much about your weight. The Neapolitan cuisine is made of "poor" ingredients such as oil, pecorino cheese, tomato sauce and aromatic herbs.

SHOPPING

If you want to buy fashionable clothes, accessories or jewellery, you should go to via Calabritto, via G.Filangieri, via Chiaia and via Toledo. Here you can find many fashion shops such as Bulgari, Gucci and Louis Vuitton. In the same area there are two stores notable for their local connection. One of them is called Ernesto Esposito (via Santa Caterina a Chiaia 20) which showcases the sexed-up heels created by its namesake designer, a Neapolitan who also designs shoes for Fendi, Sonia Rykiel and Via Spiga. The other one is called Marinella (Riviera di Chiaia 287), which is a tiny shop with a huge reputation for its classic men's accessories and, especially, silk ties.

A huge flea market with good bargains is found close to the Poggioreale jail and runs from Thursday through Monday. If you are looking for typical handmade products, the best place to go is the Quartieri Spagnoli. This area still has the highest number of old craftsmen's shops. The sophisticated, expensive Capodimonte porcelain, cameos and gouaches are particularly famous. Naples is also tied to the traditions of leather goods as well as gold and silver objects. If you are interested in buying the famous nativity scene figurines made in terracotta you should visit via San Gregorio Armeno. Here you can find all types of figurines, all made by hand.

Public Transport

The best way to get around Naples and stay sane is to walk. But since the city is quite large, sooner or later you might have to use public transport including bus and metro. It is best to avoid driving because of the heavy traffic.

UNICOCAMPANIA has an integrated fare card system to cover the whole area's public transport network. The card covers 14 different types of transportation. There are also different tourist cards depending on the purpose of your travel. Two of the companies integrated in the fare card are:

ANM (bus)
+39 800 639 525
www.anm.it

Metronapoli (metro and funiculars)
+39 800 56 88 66
www.metro.na.it

There are various types of tickets to choose between. An hourly ticket costs €1,30, a daily ticket €3.70 and a weekend daily ticket €3.10.
