Welcome to the fabled "City of Lights" or "City of Love." Paris is certainly both and has always been considered one of the most romantic cities in the world. Whether an artist, a businessman or a tourist, you will enjoy the long walks from Montmartre to the Quartier Latin. Going through some of the finest Roman and medieval monuments, sooner or later you will end up at a café, standing on the Pont Neuf Bridge, or exploring a vintage fashion shop in the Marais district.

THE CITY

Like New York or London, Paris is incomparable. As soon as you start exploring the world's most visited city, you'll feel like you are going through an open air museum. You won't see much of the capital's Celtic roots, but you will be able to admire its architectural splendours which go back to the 13th century, when the imposing Cathedral of Notre Dame started to be built. At that time, the swamplands forming the Marais district were drained and the Sorbonne University opened its doors.

But it was during the Renaissance, in the 16th century, that Paris' grandeur was created. Versailles became Louis XIV's headquarters, whose lavishness opened the doors to the French luxury goods industry. In the 19th century, Napoleon appointed Baron Haussmann to develop modern Paris, with its long boulevards, beautiful buildings and great parks that still make the city unique today.

No wonder Paris is internationally renowned for its defining neoclassical architecture and its influence in fashion and the arts. Going by foot is the best way to explore the city's districts, its old centres, cemeteries and great parks. It's busy with thousands of tourists, but the city has managed to keep its real authenticity with places like Montmartre, a good start for a tour, or the crowded Champs-Élysées with its legendary promenade. Those who fancy a trendier atmosphere, districts such as Le Marais, Quartier Latin or the quaint Canal St-Martin are the right places to be. If you like art galleries, museums or famous cabarets such as Folies Bergères, Paris has everything to meet your dreams. It's not as intense as London or New York, yet the combination of its historical heritage and its unique French touch makes this destination one of a kind.

DO & SEE

Paris' beautiful location right by the peaceful and romantic river Seine makes for a perfect setting whether your plan is to stroll around without haste or see as many attractions as possible. Over 30 million tourists come to Paris each year, drawn by the mouth watering cuisine and of course, the exciting fashion. No wonder the capital of France is one of the most visited cities in the world!

La Tour Eiffel

This iron tower is the very symbol of Paris itself, and it attracts about six million visitors every year. The tower was built by Gustave Eiffel for the 1889 World Exposition to celebrate the centennial of the French revolution.

Fun facts about the Eiffel tower:

Height: more than 300 metres

Weight: 10 100 tons

Materials: 12 000 iron beams and 2.5 million rivets

Steps: 1 665 steps to the top

According to the official website of the Eiffel Tower the construction is repainted once every seven years. It takes 15 months and requires 60 tons of paint.

Address: La Tour Eiffel

Le Louvre

The Louvre is one of the largest museums in the world, and famous for its master pieces Mona Lisa, Venus de Milo, art by Rembrandt, Vermeer, Caravaggio and many more. The main entrance is covered by the 21 meter high glass Pyramide de Louvre. The French government has collected the 35 000 paintings, sculptures and artefacts over the past five centuries, and the collection boasts Assyrian, Etruscan, Greek, Coptic and Islamic art and antiquities from prehistory to the 19th century.

You can buy tickets in advance from the ticket machines in Carrousel du Louvre or from the billetteries (ticket offices) of Fnac or Virgin Megastores for an extra €1 to €1.60, and go straight in without waiting in line. Tickets are valid for the whole day, which means that you can come and go as you please.

Another way to avoid the queues outside the pyramid or at the Porte des Lions entrance is to enter the complex via the Carrousel du Louvre shopping centre, at 99 Rue de Rivoli, or to follow the 'Musée du Louvre' exit from the Palais Royal–Musée du Louvre metro station.

Basilique du Sacré-Cœur

Sacré-Cœur is a Roman Catholic basilica on top of the Montmartre hill, at the highest point of the city. The church was inaugurated in 1914 and is named after, and dedicated to the Sacred Heart of Jesus. The church contains more than 500 statues and the venue is often pictured in movies.

Address: Basilique du Sacré-Cœur

Arc de Triomphe

The Arc de Triomphe was erected by the Emperor Napoleon in 1806, and is with its 50 metres (164 feet) one of the most famous landmarks in Paris. Located at the centre of Place Charles de Gaulle at the western end of Champs-Élysées, the arch honours those who fought and died in the French Revolutionary and the Napoleonic Wars.

Address: l'Arc de Triomphe

La Seine

The river Seine flows 776 kilometres through France, and offers in Paris a great opportunity to, by boat, get familiar with many of the city's impressive monuments. It doesn't get more romantic than to sit back on the water and enjoy the scenic setting of Paris.

Catch a ride on the famous and unique long-boats leisurely plying the Seine Bateaux Mouches. Despite the number of operators from which to choose, most of the boat lines offer similar itineraries and are equipped with an audio announcement system, providing commentary on the passing sights in several different languages.

More Info: The best time to enjoy a boat trip in Paris is May to mid-September, the sky is clear and the temperatures are comfortably warm.

Château de Versailles

This town located 20 kilometres outside of Paris is a wealthy suburb and municipality. In the 11th century Versailles was merely a country village enveloping a castle and the church of Saint-Julien. Today Versailles is mostly known for the Roman Catholic cathedral that has been home to the French King Louis XIV and Napoleon who spent his summers here. The historic Treaty of Versailles was signed here in 1919.

DINING

Paris is internationally renowned as the capital of gastronomy and boasts a huge range of eateries. Each place has its own particular atmosphere and style, whether recipes are local or from all over the world. In Paris, you must differentiate between restaurants, bistros or brasseries. A bistro is usually small, featuring simple fare, sometimes with entertainment. A brasserie serves hearty meals along with beer and wine, usually cheap and with a liquor and coffee bar. It is the right place to test the high-quality products and delights of traditional French cookery thanks to the talented and creative chefs.

Parisian restaurants are real ambassadors of good taste, offering superlative ingredients—including premium wines and cheeses—enriching the experience. But don't worry, there are good places for all budgets. Whether it's a restaurant, a bistro, or a brasserie, you'll be able to enjoy a real culinary feast with gourmets from all over the world!

SHOPPING

Shopping in Paris means famous designers and luxurious brands such as Louis Vuitton and Christian Dior. But you'll also find more affordable brands matching your budget in the huge department stores or many popular neighbourhoods. There are famous gastronomical establishments for gourmets, too.

La Vallée Village

La Vallée Village is 35 minutes east of Paris city centre and five minutes from Disney® Parks. Discover superb price reductions on a selection of the leading

French and international luxury fashion and lifestyle brands in 115 outlet boutiques.

Address: 3 Cours de La Garonne, Serris
Phone: +33 1 60 423 500
Internet: www.lavalleeivillage.com

Les Grands Boulevards (Hausmann)

In the 1st and 2nd Arrondissements, this is undoubtedly the most popular shopping area, home to prestigious department stores such as Printemps and Galeries Lafayette. They are remarkable for the wide range of items sold, as well as for their Art Nouveau architecture. You will find a world of ready-to-wear, with appealing boutiques and affordable brands. You can start with a nice walk from the beautiful Opéra Palais Garnier down to the stores on Boulevard Hausmann.

Address: Les Grands Boulevards, Paris

Les Halles and Marais

Les Halles is similar to London's Covent Garden, located in the city centre, right between the Louvre and Notre Dame. The shopping mall Forum des Halles features a heap of good shopping spots in a fascinating and crowded underground complex. This is a good source for affordable clothing. Not far away, the Jewish neighbourhood Le Marais, carries many handicraft and antique shops and is always an interesting visit.

Internet: www.forumdeshalles.com

Along the Seine River

One of the most charming shopping activities in Paris consists of walking along the rows of bookstalls perched against the parapet of the Seine River. Here, if you have time and good bargaining skills, you may find some ancient and valuable tomes or collections of old stamps.

Bazar de l'Hôtel de Ville

BHV is a little less trendy, yet definitely worth mentioning. It has a good range of house wares and home improvement items, as well as useful and beautiful domestic goods. They also carry a decent selection of clothing and accessories.

Address: 52-54 Rue de Rivoli, Paris
Phone: +33 9 77 401 400

Marché aux Puces de Clignancourt

This world renowned flea market on the northern part of Paris attracts over 70,000 Parisians every weekend to find terrific bargains from vintage clothing to antique furniture.

Address: Porte de Clignancourt, Paris

Galleries Lafayette

Galleries Lafayette is the most spectacular department store with its unique stained-glass dome. You will find the most prestigious designer and cosmetics labels, and the largest European space entirely devoted to men's fashion. This is also home to huge toy, jewellery, house ware and delicatessen departments.

Address: 40 Boulevard Hausmann, Paris
Phone: +33 9 69 39 75 75
Internet: www.gallerieslafayette.com

Champs-Élysées

This tourist strip has lots of fast food chains, banks, airline offices, cinemas and malls such as the futuristic Drugstore Publicis near Arc de Triomphe, or Galerie Marchande des Champs-Élysées near Georges V Station. The Guerlain Parfumerie, with its turn-of-the century elegance and curved staircase, as well as the neo-classical Virgin Megastore, a huge retail haven for recorded music and books, are worth a stop.

Address: Champs-Élysées, Paris

Le Carrousel du Louvre

Le Carrousel du Louvre is a diverse underground shopping precinct adjoining the famous museum. Whether you are looking for music, gifts, perfumes or clothing, you will find a number of well-known stores that deliver quality merchandise and ease of purchase.

Address: Le Carrousel du Louvre, Paris

Printemps Hausmann

Like its rival Lafayette, Printemps Hausmann is distinguished by amazing architecture and has everything, women's, men's, and children's fashions. It is a modern and trendy store and the beauty department highlights over 200 brand names.

Address: 64 Boulevard Hausmann, Paris
Internet: www.printemps.com

Area surrounding Place Vendôme

Right off Rivoli is the beautiful Place Vendôme, where the jet-setters and millionaires buy their jewellery. This is "the" area for renowned Haute Couture and luxury goods. From here you can enjoy a walk down to Rue du Faubourg Saint-Honoré and Avenue Montaigne where the superb boutiques display their sophisticated or baroque windows. Women will particularly like Colette at 213 Rue St-Honoré, one of the most interesting shopping experiences anywhere, an eclectic collection of fresh-off-the-runway design, fashion, gadgets and music. Men can try Charvet on Place Vendôme, the oldest and best known boutique in Paris selling top quality ties and shirts. Hermès and Lanvin on Faubourg Saint-Honoré, and Jil Sander on Avenue Montaigne, are also among the best for one-stop shopping for men on the go.

Address: Place Vendôme, Paris

11 Rue Royale

At 11 Rue Royale, Lalique has become a reference throughout the world for the beauty and quality of its Cristal designs collections, tableware, and decorative glass objects. In the same area, gourmets will find the foremost of French delicatessen at Fauchon (Place de la Madeleine) or Granterroirs (Rue Miromesnil).

Airports

Paris is served by two major airports, Roissy Charles de Gaulle (CDG), 25 Km from the city centre and Orly, 15 Km from the city centre. A third airport, Paris Beauvais, is mainly served by low cost airlines. A shuttle service is organized to and from its terminals and Paris-Porte Maillot.

From CDG terminals, the Roissy bus leaves every 15 minutes from 6 a.m and arrives at the city centre (at Opéra) after a 45-60 minutes journey. After midnight there are night busses going to Place du Châtelet, 90 rue de Rivoli every 30 minutes. The cheapest and fastest (30 minutes) is the underground RER B to Gare du Nord running from 4.56 a.m to 23.56 p.m. From Gare du Nord you are connected to Paris' metro network. Air France buses go to Porte Maillot and Etoile (every 15 minutes) and taxis can be found near the terminals' baggage collection area exits.

From Orly, the automatic metro Orlyval takes you to RER B Antony station from 6 a.m to 11 p.m. The other option (and cheaper) are the airport shuttle buses going to RER C Pont de Rungis station. As for buses, the Orly bus takes you straight to RER B Denfert-Rochereau.
